Patricia Collins, a Hot Springs fused glass artist, creates jewelry and artworks using dichoric and other art glass. She has taught fused glass for twelve years. Collins sells and displays her artwork at The Fine Arts Center of Hot Springs, Taylor Bellott Nature Gallery, and the Quapaw Bathhouse.

Students will make jewelry pieces while learning glass cutting and fusing techniques. Collins will also explain about kiln firings. Materials and tools are included in the class fees.

Half day classes will make two pieces of jewelry either pendants, earrings, or rings. The full day classes will make four to six pieces of jewelry and receive more detailed instructions.
